"I urge you to consume The Consuming Instinct! Using cogent examples from popular culture deftly mixed with an expert's grasp of modern evolutionary biology, Dr. Saad shows how our biology underlies our consumer choices. Like nothing else on the market today, it will help you understand why we purchase and pay attention as we do. Indeed, never has science for the lay-person been presented more cogently or accessibly when it comes to our daily economic activities."

The Consuming Instinct. Which consumer choices are shaped by environmental factors (e.g., culture) and which are manifestations of our common biological heritage? This is the fundamental question that I have been tackling for much of the past 15 years of my career, using evolutionary psychology (EP) as the theoretical framework.

Consuming Instinct

The consuming instinct, then, can be studied under the lens of evolutionary psychology (EP), which is a theoretical framework that proposes that the human mind evolved by the same Darwinian forces that shaped all animals. The human brain is simply another product of the dual evolutionary processes called natural selection and sexual selection.
