In this paper, we report on an exploratory study of perceived barriers and catalysts to increasing pro-environmental behavior among people associated with the environmental movement. Perceived barriers include time, money, low efficacy and hopelessness. Catalysts focus on changing social norms, especially through education and institutional support. We discuss the tragedy of the commons and ...

This page describes and explains the way that adding a catalyst affects the rate of a reaction. It assumes that you are already familiar with basic ideas about the collision theory of reaction rates, and with the Maxwell-Boltzmann distribution of molecular energies in a gas.

The Ni-Zn catalysts we studied appeared to be more stable than has been reported for Cu (23–25). We know of no previous mention of NiZn alloy catalysts for selective hydrogenation. There are reports of Ni catalysts supported on ZnAl<sub>2</sub>O<sub>4</sub> spinels, but these catalysts are reported to not contain a NiZn alloy.
