Red Maple is a medium-sized tree that can grow up to 25 metres tall, with a trunk that's 60 centimetres in diameter. This hardy tree species can be differentiated from the sugar maple by the sharp notches between the leaf lobes. This tree also has red twigs in the winter, red buds in the spring, and bright red/purple leaves in the fall.

Deciduous Trees in Ontario - Nature Trail

Coniferous trees are cone-bearing, the leaves of these trees are either small and needle-like or scale-like and most stay green all year around hence the term "evergreen". The needle-like leaves have a waxy outer coat which prevents water loss in freezing weather and the branches are soft and flexible and usually point downwards, so that snow slides off them, making an excellent

Step 2: design your nature trail. Draw a map of the trail to help your family find their way round it. Mark on it the things they need to look out for, such as a fallen tree, a patch of wild flowers, or a bridge over a winding stream. You could even add some fun facts about the things they'll see along the way.
