Responding to Student Writing - A Sample Commenting Protocol Ideally, instructor comments should provide directive, thorough, but also focused advice to students regarding the strengths and weaknesses of their essays, and the means to improve them. The following protocol offers one approach to achieving these goals.

These comments have two main purposes: to show students that you attentively read the paper and to help students understand the connection between the paper and your final comments. If you tell a student in the final comment that he or she needs more analysis, for example, the student should be able to locate one or more specific sites in the text that you think are lacking.

helping students anticipate future readers' queries. • Use a respectful tone. Even in the face of fatigue and frustration, it's important to address students respectfully, as the junior colleagues they are. • Write legibly (in any ink but red). If students have to struggle to decipher a comment, they probably won't bother.
