The Great Arsenal of Democracy - American Rhetoric

On December 29, 1940, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt delivered a speech to the American public in which he urged the United States to become the "Great Arsenal of Democracy." "The people of Europe who are defending themselves do not ask us to do their fighting. They ask us for the implements of war, the planes, the tanks, the guns, the freighters which will enable them to fight for their liberty and for our security" (Roosevelt, 1940).

By challenging the nation to become an "arsenal of democracy," and in later cataloging four broad and interpretable freedoms that should guide its emergence as a global power, FDR ignited a ...
