The Emperor Jones Summary from LitCharts | The creators of ...

The Emperor Jones is a 1920 play by American dramatist Eugene O'Neill that tells the tale of Brutus Jones, a resourceful, self-assured African American and a former Pullman porter, who kills another black man in a dice game, is jailed, and later escapes to a small, backward Caribbean island where he sets himself up as emperor.

Summary. Smithers discloses to the emperor the disaffection of his subjects, who are taxed and cheated by the pair beyond human endurance. Jones judges that he has six more months of power before the natives catch on to his skullduggery. He had a silver bullet cast as a good luck charm; it will be a useful tool if he is ever caught by his subjects.

See Plot Diagram Summary Scene 1 The play begins in the throne room of the emperor of an island in the West Indies. It is late afternoon, and Henry Smithers, a white Cockney (person from London's East End) trader, catches an old native woman sneaking around the room. The woman informs Smithers that the natives are planning an uprising.
