Rationales for Trade Finance. Previous literature on the extension of trade credit by suppliers to their customers confirms that it is an essential component of external firm financing. The diversity of firms and industries that use supplier credit suggests that no single reason drives its popularity.

Financial Crisis and Supply-Chain Financing

An exception occurred when a currency war broke out in the 1930s when countries abandoned the gold standard during the Great Depression and used currency devaluations in an attempt to stimulate their economies. Since this effectively pushes unemployment overseas, trading partners quickly retaliated with their own devaluations.
